“We found that people tend to use the withdrawal method when they’re not really planning ahead. ... It’s a lot more common than many people realize.”

—Dr. Annie Dude, obstetrics/gynecology resident at Duke University Medical Center

Reuters

Many young women use the “pull-out method” for birth control, and they tend to have more unintended pregnancies than other women, a new study suggests.

Researchers compiling surveys from more than 2,000 women ages 15-24 found 31 percent had used the pull-out method, also known as withdrawal or coitus interruptus, over the past two years.

Of those women, 21 percent reported having an unintended pregnancy. In contrast, 13 percent of women who only used other forms of birth control got pregnant unintentionally.

“We found that people tend to use the withdrawal method when they’re not really planning ahead,” Dr. Annie Dude, a resident in obstetrics and gynecology at the Duke University Medical Center in Durham, N.C., and lead author of the paper, said.

And, Dude added, her study shows withdrawal doesn’t work as well as other birth control methods for avoiding unintended pregnancies.

The most effective birth control methods are longer-term reversible contraceptives, such as intrauterine devices and implants that go under the skin. Less than one woman in 100 will get pregnant each year using these forms of birth control.

Slightly less effective forms include the Depo-Provera hormone shot, the Pill, the ring and the patch, all with failure rates between 2 percent and 9 percent per year.

When used properly, withdrawal carries about the same risk of pregnancy as condoms and diaphragms, with failure rates of 15 to 24 percent per year. But because withdrawal requires good timing and communication between partners, some experts estimate that failure rates may be even higher, between 18 and 28 percent.

Women who use the pull-out method instead of condoms also are at risk for sexually transmitted infections, such as chlamydia and HIV.

House hunters: Mission to Mars

Stephen Markley

redeye@tribune.com
@stephenmarkley

The Mars One project is looking for volunteers to begin colonizing the red planet by 2023, which fills me with a creeping dread. This is not due to the thought of signing up for a one-way ticket to a cold, desolate, uninhabitable space rock where one might perish from lack of oxygen or water if Mars One's systems are unable to mine useful molecules from the Martian soil. It's just that it's one hell of a move.

Recently, I've been relocating my living situation—otherwise known as “moving”—and it has been like a complicated six-dimensional chess game played on the back of a bucking rhinoceros while ducking bombs of fecal matter hurled by the monkeys from the Lincoln Park Zoo.

Moving sucks.

It makes you realize that all the possessions you own are essentially garbage. You spend all this money to rent a U-Haul truck to ferry around furniture that the Salvation Army rejects outright. My roommate Pat and I spent an afternoon getting told by charity that my stuff was not worthy to be in the living rooms of the disadvantaged and working poor.

Yet owning garbage is almost better than owning nice things because at least you don't feel bad when your garbage gets broken, scraped, mangled and fractured during the move. DIY moving requires a certain innate disregard for the material world. You'll get that motherloving couch down the stairs no matter what damage is incurred by the couch, the stairs, small children or any piss-ass pets that get in the way. If a dog gets cut in half by a cumbersome dresser Pat and I are sliding down from the top floor, so be it.

Then there's the 50 people a week dropping by to check out your apartment, who, in the age of the camera phone, are recording every inch of your place, including all those incriminating bedside tissues and DVD copies of Helen Mirren movies (or, you know, whatever it is you find erotic or whatever ...).

This is why I'd never colonize Mars. The packing alone would drive me out of my mind. Do I take my “Fight Club” poster even though the corners are all torn and there might not be room on the wall in my geodesic settlement dome? What about that end table we had in the bathroom? I kept my copies of The Onion on it, but the new bathroom might have a magazine rack, and then I'll feel stupid for having dragged the end table all the way to Mars—although, damn it, it does have a handy drawer.

It stresses me out just thinking of that scenario.

In the end, this will probably turn out to be the basic story of humanity: our current apartment, Earth, is crowded, falling apart, full of poison, the A/C's broken, and it's heating up rapidly, but moving to a new place? Way too much trouble. Humankind would be on Craigslist for days.

How To STOP Knee Pain Once And For All... Without Drugs, Shots, or Surgery

Do You Have Any of the Following Conditions?

- Arthritis
- Knee pain
- Cartilage damage
- 'Bone-on-bone'
- Tendonitis
- Bursitis
- Crunching and popping sounds

Living with knee pain can feel like a crippling experience. Let's face it, your knees aren't as young as you used to be, and playing with the kids or grand-kids isn't any easier either. Maybe your knee pain keeps you from walking short distances or playing golf like you used to.

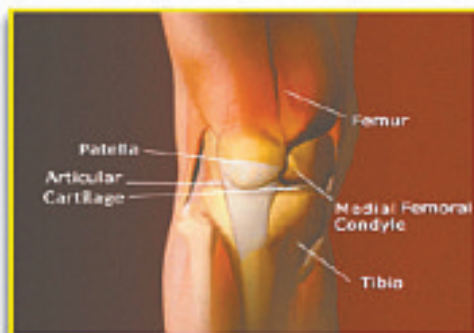

Nothing's worse than feeling great mentally, but physically feeling held back from life because your knee hurts and the pain just won't go away!

My name is Dr. Paul Ruzila, owner of Chicago Chiropractic & Wellness. Since we opened nearly fourteen years ago, we've seen hundreds of people with knee problems leave the office pain free.

If you're suffering from these conditions, a new breakthrough in medical technology may completely eliminate your pain and help restore normal function to your knees.

Finally, You Have An Option Other Than Drugs or Surgery

Cold Laser Therapeutic Treatment is an outpatient, non-surgical procedure, often used in physical therapy and sports medicine to accelerate the healing process. It offers non-invasive treatment to promote healing for those who suffer from pain in muscles, nerves, and joints, like that associated with chronic knee pain.

This same laser is used by professional sports teams including the New York Yankees and Cincinnati Bengals.

It Promotes Rapid Healing Of The Injured Tissues.

This pain-free, non-surgical approach works by stimulating the body's natural healing processes, providing pain relief and reducing injury damage.

This leading edge technology has an impressive success rate of returning patients to work, sports and competitive activities, as well as everyday life.

Patients treated with the Cold Laser often show a higher level of function, both during and after the treatment period. The therapeutic laser provides a tremendous alternative for those facing surgery.

Could This Non-Invasive, Natural Treatment Be The Answer To Your Knee Pain?

I'm running a very special offer where you can find out if you are a candidate for Cold Laser therapy.

What does this offer include? Everything I normally do in my "Knee Pain Evaluation". Be one of the first 25 callers and here's what you'll get...

- An in-depth consultation about your problem where I will listen... really listen...to the details of your case.
- A complete neuromuscular examination.
- A full set of specialized x-rays to determine if arthritis is contributing to your pain. (NOTE: These cost $125.00)
- A thorough analysis of your exam and x-ray findings so we can start mapping out your plan to being pain free.
- You'll see everything first hand and find out if this amazing treatment will be your pain solution, like it has been for so many other patients.

The first 25 callers can get everything I've listed here for only $35. The normal price for this type of evaluation including x-rays is $250, so you're saving a considerable amount by taking me up on this offer.

Remember what it was like before you had knee problems. When you were pain free and could enjoy everything life had to offer. It can be that way again. Don't neglect your problem any longer – don't wait until it's too late.

Here's what to do now:

Due to the expected demand for this special offer, I urge you to call our office at once. The phone number for Downtown office is 312-212-1150.

P.S. Now you might be wondering...

"Is this safe? Are there any side effects or dangers to this?"

The FDA has cleared Cold Laser Therapy as safe. This was after their study found 76% improvement in patients with knee pain. Their only warning - don't shine it in your eyes.

Of course at our office, the laser is never anywhere near your eyes and we'll give you a comfortable pair of goggles for your safety. Don't wait and let your knee problems get worse, disabling you for life. Take me up on my offer and call today 312-212-1150.

Here's What Our Patients Say...

"I was in denial about my knees as I winced on stairs, and put off going for a run. I didn't want to hear that I needed surgical intervention. I admit I was skeptical about how my knees could be improved with such non-invasive procedures. But I am happy to report that I was wrong. I went for my first run in about 18 months. NO PAIN! Thanks for relieving my knee pain!"

GETTIN' DIVVY WITH IT

IT'S NOT JUST TOURISTS—COMMUTERS ARE ON BOARD WITH BIKE SHARING TOO

Chicago Tribune

Chicago's budding bicycle-sharing program has attracted thousands of tourists, biking enthusiasts and the just plain curious this summer, city transportation officials say. But preliminary data obtained by the Tribune suggest the new service also is beginning to catch on with the primary target markets—public transit commuters and drivers.

There also are early indications that the Divvy bike-share program is clicking beyond the central business district, and is attracting customers in neighborhoods who are opting to pick up a bike, pedal a short distance and drop it off to run errands or go to appointments, then climb back on a Divvy bike for the trip home, officials said.

"In the high season of tourism, especially when you have events like Lollapalooza downtown, that's where we are going to see high ridership numbers. But we are seeing high ridership numbers all over the city," said Scott Kubly, deputy commissioner at the Chicago Department of Transportation.

The Divvy bike-share service, less than two months old, surpassed the 150,000-trip mark Friday, according to CDOT. About 5,000 annual Divvy members are enrolled, at $75 each, and more than 37,000 24-hour passes have been sold, at $7 each.

More than 458,000 total miles have been logged on individual trips since the service was introduced June 28, and the trips have averaged roughly 18 minutes each in recent days as more docking stations have opened, according to city transportation data.

Also, the three-speed bikes painted "Chicago blue" have logged more than 11,000 miles a day in recent days this month, with some weekend days exceeding 25,000 miles, the data show, based on the start and end points for each trip.

The service, dubbed Divvy to reflect the divide-and-share nature of bike-sharing, is not designed or priced for users to hog the bikes on leisurely, hourslong trips. Customers are supposed to use the bikes for 30 minutes or less on each ride. Riders get unlimited trips lasting up to a half-hour; after that, overtime fees are charged.

While on the one hand calling the public response to the Divvy program "beyond expectations," city officials have set a high bar for ultimate success.

One solid measurement will be whether significant numbers of city residents who own cars decide not to buy new vehicles when it comes time to replace their current ones, Kubly said.

"Bike-sharing is really another transportation option that is not a car," Kubly

COOL BIKE IN TOWN?

Chicago Tribune

The early numbers on Divvy indicate the service seems to be building a steady following, in some cases even among hard-core disbelievers who originally criticized it as being an expensive government boondoggle that would generate little public support beyond tourists. That initial assertion was reinforced when the Emanuel administration delayed last year's planned introduction of Divvy.

Bill Choslovsky, a Chicago lawyer who rides his bike on weekends, was one of the skeptics, certain that the program would fail.

"The first Tribune article I read was about the $22 million cost for 4,000 bikes," Choslovsky, 44, said Friday. "I asked myself: 'Are these magic bikes? What's the deal?'"

Then last Tuesday, during the evening rush period, he needed to go from his law office on LaSalle Street to his parents' apartment near Water Tower to celebrate his brother's birthday.

"I was late. I could have jumped in a taxi and that would be a slow crawl. It was about 2 miles—too far for a walk if I'm in a hurry. The 'L' was four blocks away and I didn't feel like sweating with strangers in a cramped car," Choslovsky said.

A Divvy docking station is right outside his office. So he figured: Why not give it a try?

He had a great—and fun—experience, calling it "genuine and organic." By Friday, Choslovsky was aboard a Divvy bicycle for the third time, and he is considering becoming an annual member.

"I said to people at my brother's birthday party, 'I Divvy. Do you Divvy?' Somebody laughed, they said, 'You are using that as a verb,'" Choslovsky said.

"That's where even I said to myself, 'I was wrong, these bikes may have a future.' When you use a noun as a verb, you know the product has arrived."

said Friday.

When the Divvy program has been fully operational for a year, in spring 2015, "we will be able to talk about how bike-sharing is really changing the choices people are making and their behaviors," he said.

Asked whether it is the Emanuel administration's goal to reduce car ownership in Chicago, Kubly did not say no.

"We want to provide people with as many options as we can for transportation and allow them to make the best choice they can for themselves," Kubly said.

Bike-sharing, which Chicago Transportation Commissioner Gabe Klein predicts will become a popular "bike taxi option," is designed to blend in with the commuter lifestyle that also involves the CTA, Metra and, sometimes, taxicabs.

It also is a tool to help ease traffic congestion by promoting more walking as city traffic engineers work to make Chicago safer and more accommodating to pedestrians and bicyclists by building wider sidewalks and more bike lanes, officials said.

A core component of the bike-share program is to serve as a link-up to CTA buses and CTA and Metra trains for the first and last mile or so of commutes, officials said.

Some of the busier Divvy bike-docking stations are clustered near CTA and Metra stations, which suggests that some commuters are incorporating Divvy into their transit trips downtown. No studies have been conducted to verify or pinpoint travel patterns, CDOT officials said, adding that the Divvy rollout will first be completed before conducting any in-depth analysis.

The preliminary data show that the busier Divvy stations near transit stops include the one at Clinton Street and Washington Boulevard, outside Ogilvie Transportation Center. It ranked No. 12 overall for the number of trips started from that location, almost 3,000, city transportation records show.

High-use Divvy stations near CTA rail stations include those at Michigan Avenue and Lake Street; Wabash Avenue and Roosevelt Road; and Canal Street and Jackson Boulevard, at the south entrance to Union Station, records show. Divvy use also is growing near CTA Blue Line stations, and there are signs the bike trips are replacing some bus commutes from the West Loop to the heart of downtown, officials said.

A strong response from transit commuters has prompted officials to increase the number of bike docks at the Daley Center Divvy station. In the morning the docks were filling up too quickly due to large numbers of commuters riding them from rail stations, and in the evening people were checking out all the bikes at Daley Center early in the rush period, emptying out the docks too fast, officials said.

Other Divvy stations, including at Clark and Randolph streets and at Millennium Park, also have been expanded, officials said.

Divvy, a $22.5 million program paid for through federal and local funds, is less than 50 percent implemented. A total of 400 stations are opening in phases through next spring.

CHICAGO'S MOST POPULAR

The top five Divvy stations are: Lake Shore Drive and Monroe Street; Millennium Park; Michigan Avenue and Oak Street; McClurg Court and Illinois Street; and the Museum Campus, according to CDOT data.

PLENTY OF PEDALING

Since June 28, the Divvy bike rental program has grown popular for those who want to pedal around Chicago.

Air show attendance dips

Chicago Tribune

The roar of active military planes was notably absent from this year's Chicago Air & Water Show, but a beefed-up lineup of civilian pilots still drew hundreds of thousands of people to the lakefront each day.

"It's just a great way to come down to the city and enjoy a Sunday," said Noelle Hoeh, a salesperson from Fox Lake. "It's nice to be out on the lake and the show has been great."

About 1.7 million people attended the free show between Friday and Sunday, said Mary May, a spokesperson for the city's Department of Cultural Affairs and Special Events. About 2 million made it out last year, May said.

Hoeh, who was attending the show for the first time, said she was amazed by the civilian pilots' formations and stunts.

"Seeing the coordination between them, there's a lot of precision in how they do their formations," Hoeh said.

But the absence of high-powered military jets was felt by those who attend the event every year.

"One of the things I miss most of all is the week before the show you'd be driving and you would suddenly be strafed by the Blue Angels" as they practiced for the show, said Diana Widman, a jewelry designer who lives in the Near North neighborhood. "That's how you knew it was the air show weekend."

No such flyovers occurred this week because federal budget cuts from sequestration forced the cancellation of the Air Force Thunderbirds, a precision flight team that alternates with the Navy's Blue Angels in headlining the annual event. The city booked six new acts to fill the hole, including a squadron of six WWII-era planes that left tail smoke messages in the sky.

Widman still appreciated watching daredevil Sean D. Tucker turn corkscrews in his bright red biplane. Six T-34 planes flown by the Lima Lima Flight Team from Naperville, drew "oohs" and "aahs" from Widman as the yellow planes zipped through the sky.

"All of this is still wonderful," Widman said. "What I especially like is that it gives everybody a chance to be on the beach and enjoy the city."

What's next for Egypt?

CAIRO Egypt's military declared Sunday that it will not tolerate violent protests as security forces arrested hundreds of Muslim Brotherhood members and some planned protest rallies were derailed.

The vow from military leader Gen. Abdel Fattah Sisi came after days of demonstrations left about 800 people dead and the opposition pledged a week of protests against the bloody crackdown that began Wednesday. The military presence throughout Cairo and its suburbs, already at a heightened level in recent days, swelled Sunday as tanks could be seen throughout most neighborhoods and around squares. Tahrir Square was closed for a third day.

Supporters of deposed President Mohamed Morsi and those protesting the military coup that unseated him July 3 faced uncertainty Sunday as more leaders of his Muslim Brotherhood were arrested and demonstrations aimed at continuing the momentum seemed to flounder.

The Anti-Coup Alliance, a coalition of groups against military rule, posted on Twitter that the protests in Roxy Square had been canceled "for security concerns" after they received reports of "thugs" on rooftops around the area. Others who had come out to protest said they heard reports of snipers. Other, smaller gatherings in Cairo and other provinces went ahead as planned, the group said.

The group reported that a march to the Supreme Constitutional Court had not been canceled. Military and police deployed heavy security at the site and extending across the district, with many roads blocked.

10 not-so-obvious questions the Bears must answer

By Ben Johnson

FOR REDEYE

The Bears are hard at work trying to mold the team into what approximates fighting trim. I'm sure you're familiar with the obvious storylines surrounding this year's squad. How will the defense respond to the retirement of Brian Urlacher? How drastically will the offense change under Marc Trestman? Will a revamped offensive line block more effectively for the last year of Jay Cutler's contract?

These are the burning questions. But they are boring, and their only answer is, "We'll just have to wait and see." I'm not interested in the burning questions. I want answers to the itching questions.

Jay Cutler

1 Who wrote Matt Blanchard's Wikipedia page?

Blanchard, the quarterback who's now out with a broken hand, looked pretty good in the preseason loss against Carolina. His Wikipedia page says he played a majority of his college ball at Division III University of Wisconsin-Whitewater, which sounds made up. Are we sure this is a real school? Where did Matt Blanchard REALLY come from? I feel like we're being Manti Te'oed here.

2 Will Marc Trestman accidentally have the team punt on third down because he's used to Canadian Football League rules?

Did you know CFL teams get only three downs in a series? And the field is 110 yards long, with a "C" line in the middle between two 50-yard lines? And their end zones are twice as deep? Did you forget this information already? I bet you did. The good news is, the way the Bears have played offense for the past 20 years or so, punting on third down might not be a bad idea.

3 Josh McCown is backing up Jay Cutler. Will there ever be a decent quarterback whose last name begins with "Mc" and ends in "own"?

Am I the only one here having Cade McNown flashbacks? I see "Mc_own" on the back of a starting quarterback's jersey and I immediately drop down into the fetal position, much like Cade McNown did.

4 Will the Bears maintain last year's league-leading turnover differential, or will regression to the mean handcuff the team with a mediocre season?

I'm just kidding, guys. I would never really use "turnover differential" or "regression to the mean" in a conversation. Unless it was behind closed doors. We all know the Bears are going to have a mediocre season. The Bears LOVE to have mediocre seasons.

5 What kind of mediocre season will the Bears have this year?

I have a feeling it's going to be more of an encouraging 8-8 after going into the bye week with a semi-disastrous 2-5 record, but I wouldn't rule out an injury-ravaged 9-7, or even a 10-6 with a first-round playoff exit led by Trent Edwards.

6 When are they finally going to take down all those leftover Jason Campbell United Way ads?

After what happened in San Francisco last year, you'd think taking down Jason Campbell would be the easiest thing in the world.

7 Will defensive tackle Henry Melton's impending free agency be a distraction?

Of course not, but wouldn't it be nice if we could all talk about this instead of Cutler? Melton—and it is absolutely not a stretch to say this—has been a better defensive tackle than Cutler has been a quarterback. Big guys need love too, people.

Henry Melton

8 Can new tight end Martellus Bennett give us the sound bite to end all sound bites?

He already said "I'm kind of like a black unicorn" while he was with the N.Y. Giants last year, which will be tough to beat. I don't want to put words in the man's mouth, but in the way of brainstorming, I'm thinking Chicago would benefit from extended riffs on the following subjects: space monsters, wish-granting wizards, sea creatures, tiny horses in three-piece suits and time travel.

9 Is there a Hall of Fame for Wooden Acting Performances

By A Kicker In Regional Commercials?

If so I would like to induct Robbie Gould on the first ballot. I had it on the inside of my foot the whole time. It was NEVER in doubt.

10 Will global warming negate the Bears' home-field advantage?

Let's hope so. I'm not ready for long Johns yet.

1	What should new Bears quarterback Jordan Palmer know about the team?	That J'Marcus Webb MAY NOT have his back. Da Bearzzz!	That a lot of people are going to think he was the dude on "The Bachelor."	You don't have to play great to be set for life. Just ask Jim Miller.	Sorry Jordan, but if you get any snaps, all hope is lost.	That "run pee" has a whole new meaning when JWebb is protecting you.
2	Give Ryne Sandberg some advice for his new job as Philadelphia Phillies manager.	This ain't Chicago, buddy. Legendary status doesn't work there. Da Ryno!	Don't let jealous Cubs fans stop your shine. Now win some games.	Send out a lot of press releases emphasizing that your name ISN'T "Ryan."	Look out for flying batteries.	Philadelphia fans are just a tad angrier than Cubs fans.
3	When Blackhawks single-game tickets go on sale Monday ...	... we're that much closer to the season. Da Hawks!	... hopefully, longtime fans aren't going to be priced out of their seats. That would suck.	... expect some "World War Z"-level hysteria at the box office.	... don't be surprised when you can't find the Red Wings games.	... Starlin Castro will give 50 percent to try to buy them.
4	C.M. Punk says Ryan Braun should "shut the [bleep] up." Discuss.	I've seen C.M. many times. I'd do what he says. Da Punk! (no disrespect)	C.M. Punk is usually right about things. Bite your tongue or go to sleep, Braun.	Sounds like it's gonna be Punk/Braun at RAW in Chicago next month! GIVE HIM THE GTS PUNK!	When C.M. Punk speaks, you should probably listen.	C.M. Smart.
5	How happy are you with your favorite college football team's ranking thus far?	Touchdown Jesus, baby! Da Lady on Da Dome.	FSU is ranked No. 11. Low enough to be slept on, high enough to let you know what's coming. #GoNoles	Sorry, but the thought of college football puts me to sleep ... like C.M. Punk's finishing move.	Not happy at all. I can't even find Cornell in the rankings!	SIU football. Unranked but No. 1 in my heart ... and still better than the Illini.

Smooth Baller

Half-court shot scores free tuition for freshman

Chicago Tribune

Markus Burden knows the secret to sinking a half-court shot.

"I like to follow through and make sure it's all smooth," the Ball State freshman said. "If it's smooth, I know it's going to go in."

Burden, 18, won free tuition for one semester, valued at $11,084, by performing the feat in front of 3,700 of his fellow incoming freshmen during a welcoming event at the university Thursday.

He was selected randomly to compete in the contest, which has become a tradition at the Muncie, Ind., university, Ball State spokeswoman Gail Werner said. He was the first to ever win.

Burden was allowed four attempts and missed all but the last. The first two were destined for failure because he was using the wrong technique, he said.

"My dad told me, 'Don't ever try to shoot a half-court shot; try to throw it,'" Burden said. "On the first two, I tried my dad's strategy. [Then] I kind of disobeyed it."

He tried for a smooth shot on the third attempt and succeeded on the fourth.

"It was just indescribable," Burden said of watching the ball sink into the basket. "My body erupted. I just had to start moving. I had to start running around, high-fiving people."

Markus Burden, 18, of Country Club Hills, celebrates after hitting a half-court shot during freshman orientation at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind., on Thursday.

Burden grew up in south suburban Country Club Hills. He plans to major in sales and marketing. He said he has made half-court shots before, but never in a contest and never in front of so many people. The entire freshman class was there, along with the university's marching band, cheerleaders and athletic coaches, Werner said.

"The crowd was going crazy," Burden said. "That just made it even better."

Gretzky's your dad?!

The Great One is going to be a father-in-law. Pro golfer Dustin Johnson proposed to girlfriend Paulina Gretzky, daughter of hockey legend Wayne Gretzky, this weekend. Johnson tweeted that she indeed said yes. Say it with us: Awwwww.

THE DIGIT

$693,000

That's the size of the pay cut Bears offensive lineman J'Marcus Webb took this weekend after he and the team reworked his deal. He went from making $1.323 million to $630,000. Ouch.

QUOTABLE

I think it would be naive to say that there's no one in the NHL that is trying to get the edge in that fashion. ... I think guys that apologize and plead that they didn't know what they were doing, I think they know exactly what they're doing. So the more tests the better."

TAYLOR GLASCOCK/FOR TRIBUNE

Tanta is more than just bread

Chef Gaston Acurio brings a taste of Peru to River North

Chicago Tribune

Gaston Acurio gets around. The man whose Gaston y Astrid restaurant in Lima, Peru, is 14th on Restaurant Magazine's current The World's 50 Best Restaurants list has 32 other restaurants worldwide, has published 20 books, has been part of a documentary film with the legendary Ferran Adria and has numerous television appearances to his credit.

Last month, Acurio received a lifetime achievement award in conjunction with the upcoming Latin America's 50 Best Restaurants awards, which will be announced Sept. 4. Part chef, part author, part prophet, Acurio has spent most of his career preaching the gospel of Peruvian cuisine throughout the world.

And now he brings his message of hope, seafood and citrus to Chicago, in the form of Tanta, which opened Aug. 12 in River North.

Tanta means "bread" in the Incan language, but in the sense of provided nourishment and food rather than literal bread, Acurio says. In that sense, Tanta (118 W. Grand Ave., 312-222-9700) will not be on the haute-cuisine level of Gaston y Astrid. Acurio envisions a casual, lively spot with 126 seats where people are as comfortable simply ordering a pisco sour and cebiche (Peruvian ceviche) at the bar as they might be sitting down to a two-hour meal. Indeed, small plates ($9-$16) dominate the one-page menu, augmented by a half-dozen or so entrees ($17-$36). It's a restaurant designed for grazing, sharing and experimenting.

Peruvian is sometimes thought to be fusion cuisine because of its myriad multicultural influences. Those influences—Chinese, Japanese, Spanish, Italian, African and ancient Incan—melded over hundreds of years; if Peruvian is a melting pot, and it is, it's a slow cooker. And Acurio thinks these unique flavor melds will play well in Chicago.

"I've been coming to Chicago a lot for the last year," Acurio says, "and I've discovered that Chicagoans love food; they're always looking for new, good things. I was at Girl & the Goat, where they use the whole head of a pig, and was amazed how people were loving these different ingredients and complex recipes. We feel if we show our original culture and original flavors with the best ingredients, I hope people will like it."

And if a first-timer were to order just one dish, which should it be?

"For your first time, I think the best dish would be the cebiche tasting (three cebiches, $25)," Acurio says. "The classico [fish], mixto [squid, octopus, more] and nikkei [tuna, avocado, tamarind]—those will open the door to the Peruvian soul."

Aaron Taylor-Johnson returns to his brutal ways in blockbuster 'Kick-Ass 2'

Los Angeles Times

In the three years since he first slipped into green Lycra to portray Kick-Ass—an awkward teen turned wannabe superhero—much has changed for English actor Aaron Taylor-Johnson. He jumped from British TV heartthrob to American movie stardom, became a father and began to pop up in casting conversations about one of Hollywood's juiciest roles: Christian Grey in the adaptation of E.L. James' erotic bestseller "Fifty Shades of Grey" (which, not incidentally, will be directed by his wife, Sam Taylor-Wood).

Now, if widespread reports in fanboy circles are to be believed, the 23-year-old is close to signing on to portray Quicksilver in "The Avengers: Age of Ultron," sequel to last year's superhero blockbuster "The Avengers," the third highest-grossing film of all time. (Taylor-Johnson said if he's hired, filming is set to begin in February.)

First, though, Taylor-Johnson is shepherding the Kick-Ass character—and alter ego soft-spoken, tongue-tied hero Dave Lizewski—through his own transformation from boy to manhood in "Kick-Ass 2," which opened last week.

In "Kick-Ass 2," Dave bulks up and improves his crime-fighting skills with a new faction of costumed vigilantes after his partner, Hit-Girl (Chloe Grace Moretz), decides to hang up her cape. In short, Taylor-Johnson must transform into a new Kick-Ass while staying true to his earlier performance.

"I wanted it to feel like everyone around him has changed, except for Dave," Taylor-Johnson said. "But you need to feel a similarity; he needs to feel familiar to you."

Whereas the first film found Hit-Girl and Kick-Ass navigating the pressures of school and costumed vigilantism, "Kick-Ass 2" follows Dave as he takes up with a new group of would-be Avengers battling a group of violent villains led by Chris D'Amico (Christopher Mintz-Plasse reprising his role as The Mother [bleep]er).

Aaron Taylor-Johnson and Chloe Grace Moretz in 'Kick-Ass 2'

Grabbing the franchise reins from Vaughn, writer-director Jeff Wadlow (the 2005 horror-mystery "Cry Wolf," 2008's MMA drama "Never Back Down") took "Kick-Ass 2" in a different direction. "Jeff delivered a screenplay that took the characters to a whole new place and on a journey that was emotional," Taylor-Johnson said. "He brought humor back to it."

Wadlow said he appreciated Taylor-Johnson's lack of pretense and insistence on wearing the same glasses, baggy jeans and ratty T-shirts he wore in the first "Kick-Ass." "He looks like a huge dork," Wadlow said. "A lot of actors want to look cool, but Aaron was adamant that he look the same."

Since June, when Taylor-Wood was hired to direct "Fifty Shades," fans have speculated whether Taylor-Johnson might take on the role of the kinky male protagonist. But he waves off the discussion, pointing out he's a bit young to portray the 27-year-old character.

As for a third "Kick-Ass," he's not ruling out the possibility. "We have to see how this one pans out," the actor said. "There's no rush with them. It needs to have time to sit and digest. We'll come back when we're ready."

Google Maps users who search for 'police telephone box, England' see this.

'Dr. Who'—on street view?

Google Maps takes 'Who' fans inside the TARDIS

Los Angeles Times

It seems there are Whovians embedded in Google's ranks. A newly discovered Easter egg on Google Maps lets "Doctor Who" fans peek into the TARDIS—the Doctor's time-traveling spaceship—and it is indeed bigger on the inside.

Google Maps users who search for "police telephone box, england" are transported to the iconic blue police box. The TARDIS appears to be parked on Earl's Court Road in London, and users can virtually explore the inside, or at least the main room (no sign of River Song's swimming pool or the Doctor's library).

When viewing the TARDIS from outside, click the double-white arrows directly in front of the police box to be transported inside the TARDIS. Google Street View's 360 viewing tool provides a close-up view of the TARDIS console and its various controls.

First reported by Jalopnik, the Easter egg appears to have some limitations. Users who have opted in to Google's new Maps interface might need to switch back to classic Google Maps in order to see the double arrows that lead inside the spaceship.

The TARDIS Easter egg follows last month's Street View addition of Diagon Alley, the magical thoroughfare from "Harry Potter." Searching for "Diagon Alley" in Google Maps takes Muggles to Gringotts Wizarding Bank, Ollivander's Wand Shop and Weasley's Wizard Wheezes and more landmarks, thanks to a Street View feature based on the movie set built in Leavesden, Hertfordshire.

"Lord of the Rings" fans will remember that asking Google Maps for walking directions from the Shire to Mordor yields Boromir's infamous warning: "One does not simply walk into Mordor."

ROMANCE PLANET

BY JENNIFER SHEPHERD | READ MORE AT LIPSTICKMYSTIC.COM

Leo July 23-Aug. 22
You're suddenly filled with doubt, wondering if you've lost your sexual mojo. Maybe you were hitting it off with someone and then that person disappeared. Try not to take it personally. A moon opposition is dampening your confidence.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22
Nobody works harder than you when it comes to troubleshooting issues in a relationship. Right now you're trying to get along with his mother or focusing on handling the stepkids she brought into your marriage. The sun says keep at it.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23
You'll want to spend quality time with someone and avoid dealing with other friends and family this week. Venus is encouraging you to enjoy intimacy with your honey and to celebrate being together as a couple. Just being together will be loads of fun.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 21
A sensitive moon has you looking for a fight. If your partner says something you don't agree with, you'll have no troubles giving him or her a piece of your mind. Try not to be such a drama queen.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21
Don't let other people influence you too much. If you're in a complicated relationship, you could be venting about it to a close friend or family member. But the moon is warning you to work things out with your sweet-heart by yourself.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19
You could be attracted to someone who is far wealthier and more socially connected than you are. You're fantasizing about marrying a millionaire or seducing a lady billionaire. The sun says get your finances in order.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18
The full moon in your sign is bringing all those pent-up desires to the surface. You'll get up the nerve to ask that special someone out, even though the prospect of doing so makes you quake in your boots.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20
You shouldn't make any major moves. Don't get engaged. Don't move in with somebody you just met. Avoid making long-term decisions about life and love.

Aries March 21-April 19
With Venus opposite your sign, you're worried that your love life is cursed. That perfect guy turned out to be a major loser. That gorgeous girl turned out to be racist and ignorant. The trick is to get better at picking partners of quality.

Taurus April 20-May 20
You're focusing a lot of energy on work and career now. If you're putting in extra hours on the job, you might find yourself developing flirtatious feelings for a cute colleague. The sun is warning you against mixing business with pleasure.

Gemini May 21-June 21
As an Air sign, you need to be attracted to someone's mind as well as their body. Right now you could be with someone who only partially turns you on. You adore her bod but hate her brain. You love his intellect but are repulsed by his man breasts.

Cancer June 22-July 22
Mars is making you super sensitive. You'll pick up on a stranger's sexual vibes across a crowded room. You'll sense that a former flame still is fantasizing about you. With all this flirty distraction going on, anything could happen.

Just because you see a film crew downtown doesn't necessarily mean it's "Transformers." NBC's "Chicago Fire" and ABC's "Betrayal" have been shooting nearby, as has the Mila Kunis and Channing Tatum film "Jupiter Ascending," which Chicago Film Office Director Rich Moskal said will wrap Aug. 27.

- Bill Murray dined Aug. 9 at Paris Club. Josh Charles—like Murray, part of Kerry Wood's whiffle ball fundraiser at Wrigley Field last weekend—dined Aug. 10 at Sunda.
- Jay Cutler and Kristin Cavallari were spotted Friday at Hubbard Inn and 25 Degrees. Fellow Bears Robbie Gould and Patrick Mannelli had dinner Wednesday at Mercadito.

STUNT CITY

Take cover! 'Transformers' is back to inflict more mayhem on Chicago

ABOUT LAST NIGHT

Luis Gomez

• lgomez@tribune.com
• @aboutluisgomez

What can Chicagoans expect when director Michael Bay returns to the city this weekend to film the next "Transformers" movie? Helicopters, live stunts and pyrotechnics, according to fliers handed out to businesses and residences in the Near East Side. The flier features the "Transformers 4" logo and reveals that shooting will take place Saturday and Sunday from 5 a.m.-10 p.m.

(Chicago Film Office Director Rich Moskal confirmed by email that "Transformers" will begin filming this weekend and is scheduled to wrap Oct. 2.)

The filming locations mentioned on the flier include East Randolph Street, from North Stetson Avenue to North Field Boulevard, and South Columbus Drive, from East Jackson Drive to East Randolph Street. Aerial work is scheduled for 7-10 a.m. both days and will include North Michigan Avenue, from East Lake Street to West Washington Street, and North Lake Shore Drive, from East Chicago Avenue to East Monroe Drive. The flier adds that there will be "helicopter filming above 500 feet in the proximity of [the Blue Cross Blue Shield Tower] and [Metropolitan Tower]."

Expect traffic delays and intermittent street and pedestrian walkway closures in the area, in addition to parking restrictions from noon Friday to 11 p.m. Sunday. Those who want to watch filming should note that certain streets will be restricted to local access only.

Many will remember that the previous movie in the Transformers franchise, "Transformers: Dark of the Moon," filmed just blocks away from this weekend's shoot, on North Michigan Avenue and East Wacker Drive (among other locations) in 2010. Unlike the previous films in the series, which starred Shia LaBeouf, this one, which has been shooting in Detroit, stars Mark Wahlberg and takes place four years after the last one. Paramount Studios estimates that "Transformers" will contribute $27 million to the local economy.

red hot A new LiLo?

Oprah Winfrey (right) and Lindsay Lohan

Lindsay Lohan is clean and wants to keep it that way. "I have such a desire to want to keep this feeling and stay that way, and I'm willing to do whatever it takes," Lohan told Oprah Winfrey in an interview that aired Sunday night on "Oprah's Next Chapter," according to zap2it.com. "I really want to be on set. That feeds me." We wish you luck, LiLo.

Baby on board

"Scrubs" star Donald Faison and wife CaCee Cobb welcomed their first child, a boy, Aug. 15. usmagazine.com reports. "Oh Happy Day!!" Faison tweeted. Cobb chimed in on Twitter as well: "The happiest day of my life." Awww!

Chick fight!

Remember that "Family Guy" scene where Peter has an epic fight with a chicken? Of course you do. Stuntwomen Jessie Graff and Tree O'Toole raised $2,995 on indiegogo.com to fund a shot-by-shot re-creation of the battle. You can watch the 4 minutes, 58 seconds of glory on YouTube, where it landed late last month. No fowl were harmed in the filming of this project.

That's how much "Lee Daniels' The Butler" raked in at the domestic box office over the weekend to debut at No. 1, Reuters reports. Two other new movies, "Kick-Ass 2" and "Jobs," finished fourth and seventh, respectively.

HOT DATE

Plan your party in the USA: That's when Miley Cyrus will release her next album, "Bangerz," she revealed on Twitter.

OCT. 8

"There are so many things I'll miss about this summer. But I'll miss you most of all, Carlos Danger."

—John Oliver, during Thursday's final episode of his three-month stint hosting "The Daily Show." Jon Stewart returns to the desk Sept. 3.
